

Lab Exercise 2: HTML Basics, Part 2

1. Start by copying your two pages from the previous set of exercises. Then, make the following changes
 - Replace the first list with a bordered table that displays some tabular data.
 - Replace the second list with a set of buttons. Each of the buttons, when pressed, should pop up a JavaScript dialog (alert) that gives confirmation that the button was pressed.
 - Add a subtitle below the right-aligned image.

Here is a representative example, but do not worry about reproducing the fonts and colors.
